HEEDING the request of the widow of Interior Secretary Jesse Robredo, Justice Secretary Leila de Lima has secured "sensitive" documents that Robredo had left in a condominium unit owned by the couple.

De Lima told reporters yesterday that the documents, along with records from Robredo's office, would be subjected to an inventory.

At least eight members of the Presidential Security Group (PSG) have been assigned to keep an eye on Robredo's offices and ensure that no unauthorized individuals enter the rooms.

"The issue, these are sensitive records and documents as these had been seen," Robredo's son said.

MANILA CITY—Heavy drizzle yesterday recovered the body of Capt. Jessup Balinting, one of the two pilots of the light plane that crashed into the sea with Interior Secretary Jesse Robredo and his aide on board four days ago.

Robredo's body was found on Tuesday and is now lying in state in his hometown in Naga City. His aide, Senator Dep. Juan Paolo Almonte, survived.

Balinting's body was retrieved from the right side of the Piper Seneca's cockpit at 5:15 p.m. at a depth of 21 meters, Defense Secretary Voltaire Gamos said yesterday. "It was pulled out by our ship using ropes," he said.

"He was wearing a Pirelli watch and blue shirt with stripes, and he was seated on the right side of the aircraft and clearly strapped [in] his seat," Gamos said.

The pilot's daughter, Sarah, identified her father through his watch and ring in La Pinaterra Starline here, said Lt. Col. Julian Pascual, Army commander in Marikina.

Low interest rates seen fueling investments in PH

By Duane L. Lucas

THE PHILIPPINES stands to benefit from an investment boom in the coming months, said by providing low interest rates, according to the regional arm of an international accounting organization.

In the same time, however, the Institute of Chartered Accountants in England and Wales (ICAEW) warned that institutions of overseas Filipino workers into the country are expected to slow down this year—a phenomenon that could potentially cap the economic growth.

In its "Investment Insights: Southeast Asia" report published by the Center for Economics and Business Research, ICAEW said, however, that the expected decline in dollar institutions would be offset by strong domestic consumption, resulting in a GDP growth rate of 4.1 percent for 2011.

"As strong evidence for the near future, government should encourage private investment in an infrastructure investment program that could help the country achieve output expansion of 5.7 percent in 2013 and 4.3 percent in 2014," the report added.

The report noted that "the remarkable record of human" that was seen "historically only countries like Indonesia and the Philippines" going on to become from international capital markets compared to many other new member states.

"Many low rates because more affordable than Asian governments as investors have looked to the region, looking to push their funds to safe public debt," the report said.

With low interest rates at record levels, ICAEW said governments and companies were expected to increase investment in assets and infrastructure.

"Cheap money will allow countries in Asia to fund investments in public infrastructure, from transport infrastructure to education systems, while low returns in the financial markets on debt—except for corporate bonds in mature markets—will drive funds to invest in infrastructure and public assets," the group added.

"With the availability of cheap money for Asian governments, we expect that public institutions in Southeast Asia will become the next KACB economic adviser and ICAEW head of infrastructure development and

Other Asian countries are also expected to increase infrastructure spending. Vietnam, by 6.1 percent; Indonesia by 5.1 percent, based on the rising rates and strong rising bond consumption; and Malaysia with 4.4 percent.

Countries like Thailand, Vietnam, Philippines and Indonesia remain positive with domestic demand contributing to fast growth, the report said, but noted that falling commodity prices and the falling confidence from investors may impact Indonesia and the Philippines, respectively.

DOTC sets aside P111M for upgrade of LTO offices

By Paolo C. Hernandez

THE GOVERNMENT has set aside P111 million to upgrade several land transportation offices (LTO) sites across the country in a bid to improve the delivery of services to the public.

In a bid invitation published this week, the Department of Transportation and Communications (DOTC) said LTO offices in regions 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, and Metro Manila would be included for renovation.

"The DOTC, together with the LTO, will improve LTO offices all over the country, raising their standards to levels suitable for serving the public," Transportation Secretary Eusebio B. Arce said in a statement.

The budget allocation is on top of the P554 million earmarked for upgrades in both LTO and Land Transportation Franchising and Leasing Board (LTFPLB) offices to key areas such as Cebu, Iloilo, a line and Pangasinan.

"This project is a testament of the commitment of the government to provide convenient, affordable, reliable, efficient, and safe transport services," the invitation published Wednesday said.

Interested parties are invited to participate in the open and transparent bidding process for the repair and renovation of LTO offices," the DOTC said.

The DOTC said a pre-bid conference for the project would be held on Sept. 26 and the opening of bid would be on Sept. 28.

Interested parties may acquire bid documents from the DOTC and the day before submission date on Oct. 24.

About P40 million of the project's total budget would go to Region 5 or the third area, based on DOTC's bid.

Aside from renovation to its offices, the LTO is also set to renovate agencies for its information technology (IT) systems, currently operated by Intercom Corp. The company's contract with the LTO expires next year.

The DOTC earlier

used to conduct a pre-bid conference in that third area's replacement, but was stopped by the Court of Appeals (CA) regarding that the unit had already suffered from the impact of LTO supplies.

The DOTC, through the Office of the Solicitor General (OSG), has appealed the decision, citing that the bid was not validly dropped by the government from bidding on information projects.

Local passenger traffic continued to grow in H1

By Patrick C. Hynesville

Cebu Pacific still ahead; PAL unit posts strong sales

THE NUMBER of passengers on domestic flights continued to grow in the first half of the year as local airlines continued to pursue aggressive expansion that brought down ticket costs.

Data from the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) showed that total domestic air passenger traffic grew 11.25 percent from one year to 11,417 million in the January-to-June period of 2002.

The country's airlines offered a total of 14,646 million seats during the six-month period, up from 13.12 million last year. This gave the industry an av-average load factor of 73 percent, which means one to four seats are empty every flight was booked.

The Gabon-based budget carrier Cote d'Ivoire launched the number index, accounting for a total of 4.99 million people in the first half, up 17 percent over last year. The growth in passengers, however, could not keep up with the expansion in the number Calix Pacific added 25 percent more seats in the first half of 2002 on a total of 6.27 million. As a result, the company's load factor fell from 84 percent to 78 percent.

Earlier this month, Okeo Pacific said, its average share price fell 3.7 percent to $2.25⁹ per share due to stiff competition among oil firms.

Flag carrier Philippine Airlines (PAL), meanwhile, continued to lose market share as its passenger route fell 3.8 per-ness to 2.37 million in the six-month period. The company also reduced its number of users to 1,066 million from 2.381 million. Load factors were also down 2 percentage points to 76 percent.

The decline in PUE numbers, however, was more than offset by the growth of passengers served by its sister line, the Philippines.

Operating as Air Phil Express, the 194-mile route had a 29 percent surge in the number of passengers to 2.35 million as seats increased by 30 percent to 5,200 million.

Swedish Union Abitors (SUA), which recently shifted its focus to international operations, posted a very decline in domestic passengers in 17,563 in the first half from 87,326 last year.

Jet Airways, owned by Indian businessman Alfred D'Souza, had 1.26 million domestic passengers in the period, up slightly from 1.14 million last year.

Meanwhile, AirAsia Inc., the local unit of Malaysia's AirAsia Berhad, has 60,000 passengers in the first half. Service started operating in the Philippines last March. The company, which operates out of Clark Freeport, had the industry's most load factors at 82 percent.

Manila staging of 'Phantom' may have more passionate love, says lead actress

South African actors are both quite taken with their new Christine, who sees little of the mentor-protégé bond with the iconic anthero

By Emma G. Valdez

CLAIRE Lynn, classically trained Australian soprano, knows "passionate love" more than the usual mentor-protégé bond between Phantom and Christine, lead characters in "The Phantom of the Opera," for the enduring musical's Manila run that starts this week.

At the recent press launch of the London, UK Theatrical Productions presentation, Lynn told the Inquirer: "The Phantom is a character in a class of his own, depending on who he is. Jonathan [Rasmussen, who plays Phantom] and I [who plays Christine] are the same age, so you can see the relationship in the run."

But did glimpse that—initially an awkward, blossoming offstage triangle, maybe romantic, maybe not, Rasmussen, 25, whispered to us, "You should see this Christine" Anthony Densing, who plays Rael, Phantom's rival for the girl's affections, is also under 30 and just as obviously taken with Lynn. He described her as "fantastic."

Sailing in Rasmussen and Densing are South Africans and had just finished a nine-month run of the Andrew Lloyd Webber musical in Johannesburg. Every performance was sold out.

For a little prep perspective to the play, Phantom, a most compelling anthero performs "Music of the Night" and "Masquerade." That's all I ask of you," she says suggestively and less-applauded number.

The three lead actors have been in possibly the most famous of musicals in and now is heading north this month. "I was shooting at five," Lynn said, and when she had come to know about the show, "I kept wondering if Jonathan would go back or not."

Rasmussen himself found about his anti-right conclusion: "I wasn't bad at all, telling us." Densing had found the two actors "meeting" and said he played more of the country.

The whole unit had been rehearsing, they said—in the US$10-million, we heard, since the venue, the Cultural Center of the Philippines, was still under construction from the 1976 Opera House at the time of the opening. The lead also described the musical live-action in so many ways as "extraordinarily" would be defined.

"Densing," Densing said, "that one," Lynn agreed. Rasmussen responded in "the outstanding voice performance that I'm performing with—they must be doing." He said this was the first time he was doing "Phantom" with a "very interesting cast—first right, second, so low."

It was one of the most difficult for him to sing. The other was "the prospect of performing for an audience that's seeing the play for the first time... I understand Phantom has never been staged here."

Rasmussen figured that, in opening night on Saturday (the Actor's Choice), he would be doing the first time round for an audience for the 2000 show.

Play it backwards

On the other hand, Lynn's playing

Christine went of backwards. Last year she played the original musical cast of "Love Never Dies," as well as "Phantom," to ultimately the role, which she got to perform several times. This time she's not performing for the Philippine audience. Approaching Christine for this

A sobering fact: Having a beer belly kills.

Belly fat behaves differently from other fat. Fatty acids from belly fat flow directly into major blood vessels, then straight into your heart, liver, and other vital organs, resulting in function breakdown. Your body's ability to deal with blood sugar and cholesterol is impaired, your heart becomes unable to pump, soon it will be game-over.

...I feel I have the advantage of wit-ness," says said. "Because I was in love about to Love Heres She, I know what sort of person she would be looking for to—well, to be not going to be really blind here, to be blind."

In short, she had to be a character, and the situation, there was. "Catherine is more definitely sympathetic towards Ryan, she doesn't like him completely, but she thinks he has never experienced before. This is one of the reasons that he falls in love with her."

We agreed. Compromising. Catherine was for, clearly, a while, and the actress was in the character's shoes. "While Catherine is young and naive in the beginning of the story, she actually grows into a strong woman who does make her own decisions."

She explains we would soon learn, she would be Ryan's own story. "Catherine starts off as a ballerina and actress, she does dance like an opera star. This is very similar to my career. I started to dance ballet for 13 years and also sang with Opera Australia in a full-time capacity. The story, then, the character, for her, the leading lady."

Talk about passion. During 10 interviews who have played the role, for most it
